

dimension 140 mq
budget 105.000 euro
project 2014
completed 2014

exhibition m9/transforming the city venezia

description

concept design, final proposal and building site supervision exhibition design m9/transforming the city biennale di architettura 2014

client

fondazione di venezia

Inside the ground floor of the headquarters of the Fondazione di Venezia, the construction of a temporary wall covering the existing walls, in self-supporting panels of MDF covered by a textile paper, delimits the areas dedicated to the exhibition.

The exhibition access is from the main entrance of the building headquarters of the Fondazione. Only part of the atrium will be affected by the exhibition and in particular the long side towards the Rio Nuovo. Then it's possible to enter to the first room dedicated to the project M9. At the center of the room is exposed a large model of the new building and the environment, on the side surfaces of the room are exhibited drawings and views on the project at the final design phase.

The next and last room is accessed through two passages. The second room is dedicated to the theme of Urban regeneration through exhibition of five projects by Sauerbruch Hutton who has often worked on this issue.

